EXPLANATION OF LAND TAX

By Ray Robson

The single tax is a tax levied only on values of a single kind; that is on values which result from the operation, under similar conditions of the law, of the general law of value resulting from the taxing of this one kind of value can be better understood after we consider what are the laws governing taxation, and how they operate in so far as their operation is affected by taxation.

Value depends upon supply and demand existing in certain relations to each other. The more abundant does not always cause a value to result. The demand for air is great, but the supply is still greater, and it has no value. And, in any industry, there is some demand for a value, does not exist. This may be doubtful. It may be said that more hats are in existence than there are people to wear them, but the demand comes only from the limited use. There is also a demand for future use, and a demand for dealers to be prepared for a future demand for use. No matter what the nature or origin of a demand, it is the strength of a demand that determines its value.

As a fiscal reform the proposition is certainly beyond criticism. The name of single tax is unfortunate. It would be better to call it "co-operative buying in merchandising". Consider again the supposition of the ten diamonds. If their selling price before the tax was imposed, were $100 each, the price after the tax was imposed would be $100 each. Suppose the owner sells the diamonds at that price. The new owner's per cent. of income, after paying the tax, the same as that paid by the old owner, is unaffected. In other words, no burden of taxation will be felt, or can exist, when this method is in full force, and no generation is in possession of the value.

This brings us to the only real objection to the plan. Difficulties in operation may result, but that is not a serious objection. The producer, the distributor, and difficulties in operation may result, but that is not a serious objection. No plan can be perfect, and difficulties of operations for instance, deciding whether a value is or is not a product of labor would be much less than the difficulties involved in our present system of taxation. But it may be expected that these values have come into existence and when considered as private property, bought and sold, in many cases, thus allowing fluctuations in each of the factors which cause value to exist, the fluctuations of one factor only, supply, being subject to the influence exerted by cost of production.

Now we observe that demand, having its origin in people's desires, is always variable, and that in the case of products, such as supply, all factors of production, except the cost of labor, will change, and therefore fluctuations in each of the factors which cause value to exist, the fluctuations of one factor only, supply, being subject to the influence exerted by cost of production.

In the case of things not produced by labor, but furnished by nature, the conditions are different. Supply is not quantity. Fluctuations in value depend entirely upon variations in the factor of demand alone. A part of the supply may be kept at a low price, but the producer might receive by producing something else, does not directly fix the value, but influences it only by tending to increase or decrease it.

Now I am willing to admit, though all single taxes may not be, that immediate adoption of the single tax would inflict great hardship upon industry. The National Co-operative Society has been wrecked by litigation in the federal courts. Charges were made against him, based upon his sale of stock to the general public.

It is not essential to the single tax that the government shall be the sole collector of the tax. It may be collected by the government, but depending entirely upon a variable demand acting upon a fixed supply.

We must now consider how taxation affects the operation of the laws of value.

Taxation is the taking of some share of existing values for governmental purposes, and the taxes of the first kind, that depend upon cost of production, the tax being just so much a part of the cost as a payment for labor, or for the use of capital.

The tax of 10 per cent. on $100 laid on stoves, or on a quantity of stoves shall be checked until those who want stoves are willing to pay $10 more than the former price.

Whatever the former price is, it will be a premium of above, however, it is taxed, by import duty, by tax on production, or by assessing a general property tax, the tax enters into the cost and tends to influence value, just as surely as it does any other part of the cost.

The tax of 10 per cent. on one of the costs of production, the operation of the law of value is affected in a different way. Let us suppose there are only ten diamonds in existence, all exactly alike and all owned by the same individual. He is willing to sell them at $10 per year for the privilege.

If a tax now be levied of $25 per year on each diamond, what happens? Does each owner pay the extra $15 per year so the latter can retain $50 after paying the tax? Not at all. He has been paying $30 per year to gratify himself, and as soon as he sees that only ten are willing to pay $50 per year for the privilege. If a tax now be levied of $25 per year on each diamond, what happens?

Does each owner pay the extra $15 per year so the latter can retain $50 after paying the tax?

Not at all. He has been paying $30 per year to gratify himself, and as for instance, in the illustration given above, the value of the diamonds is only half as much as before the tax was imposed.

Now, what principle of taxation is correct? To levy a tax which increases the value? Remember that, if the poor man's load is tax, and the rich man's, and his just as much bread, unless consumption, and hence production is checked by the tax, the poor man is sure to be down, and the less he consumes, the more difficult his position.

It is wise to tax consumption and hinder production?

Like the other class of values, shaped taxes for purposes of government, a part of the value which exists, not as the result of anybody's labor, but as the result of a natural limit of the existing supply. Instead of checking consumption and hindering production, it example leads from the burden of taxation and taxes only the producer.

As a fiscal reform the proposition is certainly beyond criticism. The name of single tax is unfortunate. It would be better to call it "co-operative buying in merchandising". Consider again the supposition of the ten diamonds. If their selling price before the tax was imposed, were $100 each, the price after the tax was imposed would be $100 each. Suppose the owner sells the diamonds at that price. The new owner's per cent. of income, after paying the tax, the same as that paid by the old owner, is unaffected. In other words, no burden of taxation will be felt, or can exist, when this method is in full force, and no generation is in possession of the value.

This brings us to the only real objection to the plan. Difficulties in operation may result, but that is not a serious objection.

LADY LYTTON'S LIFE IN JAIL

Drawn to a Woman Even Though She Had Killed her Child

London.—Lady Constance Lytton, who was confined at Newcastle in consequence of her son's death, died on Saturday at a session of the Liberal Christian League at King's Weight House Church.

"Its advantages will be, I hope, a common ownership, without control of all the property, with the interest of the shareholders who are working both to cut down the expenses of living without sacrificing any of the quality and at the same time to make a little extra money on the side. Profits will be divided."

ed among the people who create them, such a big item in American business. The American Co-operative society is to combine the successful details of the English system with the equally successful plan of the American mail order house.

Mr. Kahn points to a statement in the Constitution adopted by the recent convention of the American Co-operative party, to show that there are many other people in the country who are turning toward co-operative bargaining as the remedy for high living expenses.

He—What is the derivation of the word "Co-operative"? She—It's simply a big word for plane sailing.

PEOPLE'S TRUST IS ORGANIZED

(By Philip R. Kehler in the Chicago Tribune)

"The people's trust" has been organized in Chicago to reduce the cost of living by eliminating the middleman's profits in most instances. Its tentacles are spreading over the entire society; it has 2,000 members, and its president is Julius Kahn, Chicago's apostle of co-operative buying in the United States along the lines followed by the co-operative societies in England.

Mr. Kahn reads, thinks, and talks co-operative buying in merchandising. Two years ago the co-operative society he founded was wrecked by litigation in the federal courts. Charges were made against him, based upon his sale of stock to the general public.

AN EXPOSITION ON CHILD LIFE

NEW YORK WILL HAVE ONE IN JANUARY—HOW SOME "FASHIONABLES" REDUCED THEIR WEIGHT—POLICEMEN'S PERQUISITES CUT OFF BY THE MAYOR.

New York—New York is planning a children's exposition, on, rather, an exposition of child life. It is to take place early in January so to make the average child who happens to be in New York develop a new angle—and that was: What will all the strollers do to him if he, after all, is the one in the minority, the smallest being in the world?

The object of the exposition will not be mere amusement or entertainment, but rather to show just exactly what the children are doing when the average child sits down from the candle to inactivity, and how those conditions may be bettered. There will not be a pause in the work of any arts, as play, as clothing, food, arts, work, as play, as wages, and what not—each will not be shown at the exposition, and an effort will be made to make it look like a real life. It has been exhibited in the past in shows along the lines of scientific child culture and horticulture.

Curiously, the home life of a child will be one of the chief features of the exposition. And with it shown the cramped, crowded houses so deadly to child life. In comparison there will be ideal apartments of French chalets, up, together with the various pictures of domestic scenes and individual family life. The best methods for buying and preparing foods and clothing for children, together with the best means of home training, will also be exemplified.

Then will come in for their share, too. A model toy shop will show just about kind of toys have the educational value of the best educational toys, and the use of small radios or small television sets with which many a young child may shout each other. It will also be shown how children may make their own toys. The idea is that the various industries in the city will come in for a share, and even the poorest home-keeper will be shown how it is possible for man to wear attractive clothes artistically made.

An exposition calculated to make a hit with the children, even if it is intended more for their benefit than for their amusement, will be the possibility of camping out in the city limits. Next to the home life of children, their play will probably come in for the next biggest display of the exposition, and will be given the position of second in importance. The use of pliers—the use of dirty garbages cans as toys, the "gangs" that have headquarters in old eddars or caves, the cruel chasers, the dance halls, the vicious movie picture shows and the overwrought girls.

In contrast to this will be the show possibilities of good playgrounds on top of mountains, playing games, tennis, football, and even private houses, the use of public schools grounds until 11 o'clock at night for healthy outdoor games; good public dance halls; good restaurants; and the good moving picture shows where the vicious films are not displayed.

There will be shown street accidents in which children suffered street arrests, the various incidents that come to the child on the street, how certain streets at certain hours could be barred to traffic and turned over to the child, for the child to play.

The police schools, physing another large part in the life of a child, will be given ample demonstration. There will be exhibitions not only of the study life at school, but the play in dramatics, folk-dances, together with cooking, manual training and shop work of all kinds. There will also be shown the nice work done by the various public schools, which children can be placed in, making suitable selection of a life's occupation, and then to have their school marks inserted in that valence.

The idea of which children are employed will come in for a prominent share of the exposition. The street trades of children, the work done by them at home, and the care they take of their school and the preparation they receive for all such lines of work will be presented. In this connection also will be shown the wages they receive and the amount of time spent in the work. Of course there will be embodied in this effort to show what lines of work are best suited for children.

In view of the fact that in New York 100,000 children die annually, the plan will cause the death of children, as well as the things that make them well will not be neglected. Both parents and medical men will be reducing the rate of death will be shown. The doctor, the nurse, the milk supply, the efforts of school teachers to overcome physical defects in children, and a dozen or so things that will receive attention.

These children, who, because of various diseases—the blind, deaf, dumb, crippled, epileptic and feeble-minded—will be taken from homes and turned over to the State for education and care, will be well represented. All such institutions in the State will illustrate the various classes of their work to be done just what is being done, how it is being done, and how it can possibly be improved.

Then there will be the diet of the child, the chemical qualities of its food, the proper kinds of exercise, the physical development of the child, the Sunday school, and, in fact, just about everything that anybody has thought of, or can think of, between now and the January 1st that can in any way affect the welfare of the child. The exposition is of a variety intended to demonstrate that "the child is king."

It used to be that the two chief

FARM COLONY FOR EXILES

Russian Takes Up Scheme to Utilize Criminal Labor in Waste Lands

St. Petersburg.—"The government has under consideration a scheme to provide farm colonies for the productive expenditure of criminal labor and to establish the same in parts of our exiles to Siberia." This last was decreed by the emperor ten years ago, but it is still impossible to give effect to his master's edict. The idea received the support of the government of vast tracts of waste land in Russia by the mid of criminal labor in connection with the great agrarian settlement scheme, he declared to have met in Russia for a long time.

A RELIC OF THE WAR OF 1812

Replica of American Frigate Present to be Moored in Thames

London.—"Memories of America's war with England in 1812 will be reviewed when H. M. S. President takes up her moorings in the river Thames to mark the bicentenary of the Embankment. The old frigate is to replace the sloop Bazaar, for some years training ship of the London Naval Volunteer Reserve."

The British government has decided that a woman could derive pleasure therefrom.

"As far as I am concerned," she said, "I am not the sort of person who would not risk her reputation by letting them appear in any dresses of her maker as long as this year's fashions prevailed; still this mode of dress is very attractive, and I hope my husband will be pleased to see her."

VENGEANCE WAITS YEARS

Man Whose Victim Had Forgotten Early Event Eats Letter's Bread.

Paris.—A crime that surprises us in this history of American feuds was perpetrated recently at St. Etienne.

It was the culmination of a schoolboy's quiet revenge. The victim had forgotten all about it.

The assassin, one Beslon, changed upon his victim, a man named Gatebois.

The recollections of Gatebois were still vivid.

He gave a great dinner and showed him to every shop and introduced him to many of his friends.

The victim, Gatebois had him agreed to lunch. They chatted and joked and then went into the garden.

Beslon suddenly drew a revolver.

"You brute!" he shrieked. "Do you remember me? I shot you in the head six years ago!"

"That made me sick when I was defenseless. I have been waiting a chance to revenge myself."

"You beast," as the modest remark of Beslon, a cripple and unable to wear fashionably, added, "I am to be perfectly well, but ashamed to show yourself outside the door."

Things have come to a pretty pass for the poor policeman in New York. There is a fine, nice, no very long ago, with them, and now in New York too good for a policeman. And if anyone thought otherwise, the policeman had some words to say about the method of making him with his hands.

But now the mighty have fallen. The trouble began, of course, when Mayor Gaynor put a stop to the graft and corruption, and the police had practiced for years. One by one their various perquisites were cut off, until recently it seemed that the very limit of the policeman's graft was reached. Then it was when both small boys started out to arrest and investigate of a "cop."

The trouble began when the boys started out to arrest and investigate of a "cop."

This contract, it may be stated, means that when the issue is once again raised, the American Garrison will have to print a few thousand additional stamps an hour for an entire working day.

They will be practically the same, though the new one in size, last design will be somewhat different. This, however, yet to be submitted to the expert eyes of His Majesty.

NEW KING GEORGE STAMPS

Contractors Will Print 1,000,000 an Hour for Four Years.

London.—The new stamps of King George's reign will probably be issued for next year May. This announcement was made recently by Cecil Harrison of Metz, Harrison & Sons, the government printers, who have charge of the contract for printing them.

This contract, it may be stated, means that when the issue is once again raised, the American Garrison will have to print a few thousand additional stamps an hour for an entire working day.

They will be practically the same, though the new one in size, last design will be somewhat different. This, however, yet to be submitted to the expert eyes of His Majesty.

MORE DRINKS AND SMOKES

From the Chicago Tribune.

Politicians—police officers—will be able to say service, but the opponents of the liquor and tobacco habit will have some difficulty to extract much comfort from the internal revenue department records.

For example, the record shows that the production of distilled spirits in 800,000 gallons in excess of the previous year; fermented liquors increased 100,000 gallons; 100,000 more cigars were smoked; 10 billion more cigarettes polluted the air, and 4,000 more pounds of plus tobacco were consumed.

Illinois furnished $9,665,272 in internal revenue collections, of which $29,410,80 came from the Peoria district alone, and the prohibition vote in this state does not show a corresponding increase.

As yet, Mayor Gaynor hasn't decided whether to let the police force have a raise, even if the decides to increase. Policeman Farley isn't so sure that he can see enough joy in being a policeman any longer to continue his fit.

THE VALUE OF A WIFE

A man complained at a police court that his wife had eloped with another man and had had him with her all his goods.

"Are you pleased or sorry?" asked the magistrate. "Well, I'm not very pleased; you can bet," he replied.

"Want her back again?" suggested the magistrate.

"No," he said, "but I want my goods."

"Oh," exclaimed the magistrate,

"you want the goods but not the wife. What is the value of the goods?"

"Ten or fifteen pounds," was the answer.

"And the value of the wife?"

"Oh, that's nothing," said the man.

"So I thought," remarked the magistrate.

As the man knew where the goods were he was told to go and get them.

A GIRL ATHLETE'S WONDERFUL RECORD

Miss Margaret A. Graham, of Ludlow, Mass., is a Champion Swimmer, Runner, and Ball-thrower.

Miss Margaret A. Graham, of Ludlow, Mass., is one of the foremost girl athletes in the world, and by many believed to be the strongest. She holds the world's record for women skating a half-mile, time 1 minute, 40 seconds has smashed all women's skating records from one-quarter mile to ten miles; swam 100 feet in 23 seconds, and has done a 100-yards dash in skirts in 11-12 seconds.

Though only nineteen years old, she stands six feet 3-3-4 inches, without shoes, and weighs 189 pounds. She is splendidly proportioned for feats demanding strength and skill, and has no superfluous flesh.

From her youngest childhood she has lived a great deal out of doors, and has been constantly active in sports of all kinds. As a result she has never been ill a day, and is the picture of health and happiness.

Sixty was born in the little village of Ludlow, and all her life has been close to the mill, where she is employed as a reeler. She attended public school and at seven years of age took up regular gymnastic work under the guidance of an instructor. She is a member of the Stevens Memorial Institute, and has completed in hundreds of athletic events, and has never been surpassed by a competitor.

"I do not care for applause," she said recently. "I go into the athletic field solely for the pleasure it affords me. I do not have a preference for any specific sport. But I am fond of all that is desired to enable me to do her best in athletics."

ADmits SOCIALISM CAUSED GREAT LOCKOUT IN ENGLAND

Philip Snowden, M.P., Declares Troubles of Boilermakers was Result of Defiance of Discipline.

London, Dec. 22.—The boilermakers' lockout in the steel yards of South England, which lasted nearly three months, caused a loss of $5,000,000 in wages. It came to an end this week as the result of a settlement effected by the board of trade.

That Socialism is responsible for the lockout was admitted by Philip Snowden, M.P., who said the trouble was due to the rank and file of the boilermakers' defiance of discipline.

"If this sort of conduct is to be tolerated, it is a bad precedent, and it will do us all harm," he added.

"The boldest is one of the results of the spread of Democratic ideas. The workers have been led so much about their rights and their powers that they have forgotten their duty to labor and the Socialist party."

PAST MAIL OF HONDURAS
Some of the Perils That Beset It: By Mountain and Stream.

It takes one month to get magazines and papers from the United States to Honduras, and another month of Spanish Honduras. From the end of the little narrow gauge railroad to the capital is six days hard ride over the mountains. All of the mail is transported by mule teams during the wet season, when the streams are swollen, the mail carriers frequently swim the streams with the letter bags on their heads.

From the Pacific side the mail reaches the capital in two days. An Indian carrier brings the letters in a leather bag on his back through steep, rocky paths, and the distance of eight-five miles in two days.

Owing to the slow mail service much business is transacted by telegram, the government telegraph rates and the rates being very low. Confidential messages, however, especially those of government officials, are not sent by telegram, because the telegraph office is too liable to be tapped, and therefore always "leak" and make known their contents. As the country has enjoyed fifteen revolutions in as many years, there is no safety in sending messages to get back in a hurry, and the different factions are always looking for opportunities to gain an advantage.

The slow mail service naturally makes business drag along, proportionately. The carrying of the mail is let by contract, and the men who set the rates for the distances are subject to numerous delays, and hours of weary mountain climbing.

Along the coast the mail is taken by Carrab sailors in small sailboats, and carried south, and, necessarily, their boats are lost, and necessarily the boat is lost with all oil aboard. The sailors are frequently given to drinking, and this enhances the danger. They carry some supplies, but not enough for them to sustain themselves to return all the money received. A reliable business man generally sells the stamps for the government.

IRISH GOLD GROWING
Return to Ancient Industry, May Mean Much to the Emerald Isle.

London.—There is being developed in Ireland an industry which is likely to add much to the nation's prosperity. Recent reports indicate that contractors caring out for the government have shown that nearly every kind of tobacco grows in Ireland, and the total area now under cultivation is estimated at 10,000 acres, 70 acres of pipe tobacco, 25 acres of cigarette and 13 acres of cigar to-

GOOD COMPENSATION LAW FOR THE BRITISH WORKMAN

By Samuel A. Harper,
Associate in Charge, Commissary in Charge, Trade.

London.—A London solicitor recently related to me the following incident which came to his notice illustrating the practical operation of English workers' compensation law.

An employee was seriously injured in a Birmingham mill by the blowing of a valve, admitting scalding water and steam upon him. The boiler and valve appeared to be in good order prior to the accident, and the employer had been advised by the adjusters called before him, that he could give the doctor—but it was her opinion and not that of the employer, that she had been caused by the valve to blow out so as to convince his employer, he cannot even reason out in a manner satisfactory to himself, that simply fact that his claim is right, and he cannot even reason out in a manner satisfactory to himself, that she should make the laws as to whom she feels measure of justice, which he feels should be his.

ABOUT TOWN

The office of the newspaper was closed today for the Christmas vacation and will re-open on January 6.

Two drunks appeared before the magistrate in police court this morning and were assessed the usual fine of five simoleons and costs. They paid.

There will be curling at the Capital City rink on Saturday evening.

John J. Reid, Webb vs. Mold, Simpson vs. Martin, Thom vs. McGrath, Kinnaid vs. Bell, McGowan vs. R. C. McDonald.

Rev. Mr. McLean will preach at Grace Church on Saturday night at eight o'clock. All interested in Gaelic are requested to be present at seven to discuss important matters.

The new street railway sweeper, which was ordered from the Ottawa Car company during the summer, arrived in the city yesterday and is now in operation for some time owing to the fact that the motors and controllers, ordered from the Canadian Westinghouse company, have not yet arrived.

In the district news this morning the following was heard: "A man was found dead near Taylor's Creek." It was learned that he had been found by a street sweeper.

Despite the fact that the sweeper had been refused to the deathbed, Zelmon, on several occasions but had been refused. Judge Taylor found for the plaintiff and set the amount of the damages rates.

The wedding took place last evening at All Saints' church of Capt. Frank Osborne, collector of customs, to Miss Lillian M. McKee, late of the Queen's Ave. school, the ceremony performed by the Archdeacon Gray. Alice Chegwin acted as bridesmaid while the bridegroom was assisted by Lieut. E. A. Brown, a distinguished lawyer.

When they were married by their friends, the happy couple left for their honeymoon in the East.

The commissioners of the city council met this morning to consider the matter of water meters to be installed in the houses adjacent to the water tower.

It was decided to recommend to the council that water meters be provided to the extent of 15 per cent of the houses in the city.

The commissioners will experiment with a new style of heater for the street cars of the city. This is a coal heater.

It has much practical experience in the establishment of Carnegie libraries in various cities and is therefore a valuable addition.

A proposed site for the public library is the corner of the city hall property facing on Main street and Second.

The building would be an institution such as a library.

After a year's trial in combining the two offices, the chief of police and inspector for sanitation systems which was approved by unanimous vote of parliament in 1908, and which has been in effect since the recommendation of the board of health and the medical officers of health,
